ABSTRACT

This directory lists over 200 interpreters for the deaf and hard of hearing in Virginia who have passed either national certification or state level screening. Introductory material first lists services provided by the Virginia Department for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing and then offers guidelines which address: what an interpreter is; how to select an interpreter; the qualifications currently recognized in Virginia; how to use an interpreter; the Code of Ethics for interpreters; and the cued speech transliterator code of conduct. It details the specific certificates offered by the national Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf and the Virginia Quality Assurance Screening Levels (VQAS) which offer awards at four levels of proficiency. The directory lists the nationally certified interpreters first and then the VQAS-qualified interpreters, providing name, address, telephone number, specific credentials, availability, and regions served in Virginia (a map is provided). PREFACE

The Virginia Department for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (VDDHH) is pleased to make available the Directory of Qualified Interpreters for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing. This Directory is intended to be a resource which can be used by service providers and individuals who are interested in procuring the services of a qualified sign language interpreter, oral interpreter or cued speech transliterator.

Special thanks are extended to all interpreters for their commitment to the growth and success of our Interpreter Services Program. Their dedication to the profession of interpreting has made an invaluable contribution to allow Virginians who are deaf or hard of hearing full participation in all programs and activities offered in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

We hope that you find this Directory to be useful and informative. We encourage you to share it within your organization or with anyone who may find the information helpful. You may make copies of this Directory and distribute it to others who are interested.

NOTE: The phrase, "persons who are deaf or hard of hearing," is used throughout this Directory as the collective term referencing the primary population served by this Department. However, the Department also serves people who are hearing (such as service providers, family members) and people who may have other disabilities in addition to their hearing loss (such as deaf-blind and speech/language disabled).

NOTE: The term "interpreter" when used generically in this document refers to both interpreters and transliterators who facilitate communication between persons who are deaf or hard of hearing and persons who are hearing.

SERVICES PROVIDED BY THE VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT FOR THE DEAF AND HARD OF HEARING

In 1972, the General Assembly established the Virginia Department for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (VDDHH). The Code of Virginia (Section 63.1-85.1.1 et seq.) establishes the Virginia Department for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing as a "communication bridge" between those who are deaf or hard of hearing and hearing persons. The Department creates and seeks opportunities for Virginians who are deaf or hard of hearing to be responsible, productive and independent citizens. To this end, the Department offers the following services:

Advocacy

VDDHH provides information about the rights of consumers who are deaf or hard of hearing and assists with individual problem resolution on a case-by-case basis in situations related to equal access to services. Advocacy activities permeate all programs of the agency.

Information and Referral (I & R)

VDDHH receives and responds to requests for information and referral concerning services available to Virginians who are deaf or hard of hearing and provides general and specific information on topics related to persons who are deaf or hard of hearing.

Outreach Services

VDDHH provides services at the local and state level through outreach specialists who work with persons who are deaf or hard of hearing, as well as other agencies and service providers, to resolve problems and improve access to services. Outreach specialists provide training and technical assistance to service providers and the general public about deaf-related issues, hearing loss, and the needs of persons who are deaf or hard of hearing.

Virginia Relay Center (VRC)

The VRC is a public service of the Commonwealth of Virginia overseen by VDDHH. VRC, which was implemented on February 1, 1991, provides 24-hour-a-day, 7-day-a-week statewide telephone access, relaying calls between users of text telephones (TTYs) and persons using a regular telephone. (TTYs include TTs, TTYs and computer modems.) For more information contact VDDHH or the VRC. To make a relay call, just dial 1-800-828-1120 (TTY) or 1-800-828-1140 (Voice).

Technology Assistance Program (TAP)

This program provides assistance to Virginians who are deaf, hard of hearing, deaf-blind, hearing-visually disabled, and speech/language disabled in procuring Text Telephones (regular, large print or Braille TTYs), amplification devices, and visual, audible or tactile telephone signallers.

Interpreter Services

In 1978, VDDHH was authorized by the General Assembly to administer a statewide Interpreter Services Program to facilitate communication between persons who are hearing and those who are deaf or hard of hearing. To that end, this Department now provides the following services in accordance with "Regulations Governing Interpreter Services for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing":

1. Maintains and distributes a Directory of Qualified Interpreters for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing.

2. Assigns, refers, and coordinates qualified interpreters upon request.

3. Provides compensation for interpreter services in some situations. Contact the Department for details.

VQAS

The Virginia Quality Assurance Screening (VQAS) is a diagnostic assessment for interpreters/transliterators. VQAS consists of a Written Assessment based on the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf (RID) Code of Ethics and a Performance Assessment of skills in expressive, receptive and interactive interpreting and transliterating situations. Contact the VQAS Coordinator for a full information packet on the assessment process.

Library

The VDDHH Library maintains an extensive collection of books, and videotapes available for circulation. Reference materials and a variety of informational brochures are also available.

Newsletter

The E-MAIL is a quarterly newsletter published by the agency. Information about VDDHH programs, legal rights of persons who are deaf or hard of hearing and upcoming conferences is included.

Legislative Tracking

During the General Assembly, legislative tracking can be followed through Bridges, a bulletin board system. The agency provides updates during the session on the status of bills of interest to persons who are deaf or hard of hearing. Contact the Special Projects Manager for more information.

WHAT IS AN INTERPRETER?

A qualified interpreter for the deaf or hard of hearing is a professional who facilitates communication between deaf and hearing individuals. A qualified interpreter has demonstrated proficient ethical and interpreting skills and has gained the knowledge and expertise required to function in a professional capacity.

Perhaps the biggest misconception concerning interpreting for people who are deaf or hard of hearing is the generally-held assumption that a beginning course in sign language or fingerspelling is a sufficient qualification to work as an interpreter. A person who knows conversational sign language does not necessarily possess the expertise required to perform well in the role of an interpreter. Professional interpreting requires intense training and experience before proficient levels of skill are attained.

The role of an interpreter is to accurately convey all messages between the individuals involved in the communication setting. Interviews, conversations and presentations can proceed at a normal pace, transitioning fluently from one communication modality to another, with the aid of a qualified interpreter.

HOW TO SELECT AN INTERPRETER

An individual or agency employing an interpreter should be aware that communication modes differ among deaf or hard of hearing persons. Residual hearing, age at onset of deafness, language background and family and educational history all impact the communication style used and preferred by the consumer requiring the services of an interpreter.

The primary consideration must be that communication is flowing smoothly between all parties in the interaction. If any person does not understand the proceedings, an inappropriate interpreter may have been selected for the particular assignment and a more appropriately qualified interpreter may need to be contacted. When contacting an interpreter, service providers and consumers should be aware of national certification and state screening levels and attempt to locate the interpreter with the most appropriate skill level for the situation.

Some of the types of assignments an interpreter may be called upon to interpret are listed on page 5 as a guideline for your reference when assigning an interpreter. This list is not inclusive of all situations possible. It should be noted that a high priority should be placed on the interpreter's ability to communicate with the consumer who is deaf or hard of hearing, whether it be American Sign Language or a manually-coded form of English. Please feel free to contact VDDHH for assistance in assigning an interpreter.

QUALIFICATIONS CURRENTLY RECOGNIZED IN VIRGINIA

Qualified interpreters recognized in the Commonwealth of Virginia have demonstrated high ethical standards, fluency in English and at least one visual communication mode, and proficiency in interpreting processes. They have been awarded credentials from a recognized national evaluation or state screening assessment (Code of Virginia 63.1-85.4:1). Compensation to qualified interpreters is generally commensurate with the level of skill achieved. Please contact VDDHH for assistance in determining the qualifications of interpreters.

NATIONAL CERTIFICATES

Interpreters holding national certification should be able to provide services in most situations. However, the preferred communication modalities of the consumers and the background experiences of the interpreters should be given priority consideration.

VIRGINIA QUALITY ASSURANCE SCREENING LEVELS

Offered by the Virginia Department for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (VDDHH)

Candidates may be awarded a level in three competency areas:

T - Transliterating - Sign Language (English/Manually Coded Form of English)

I - Interpreting - Sign Language (English/American Sign Language), and/or

CS - Cued Speech Transliterating

LEVEL IV - Proficient. Level IV interpreters are recommended for the following situations:

Mental Health	Psychiatric hospitalization, regular psychiatric appointments, mental health crisis intervention.
Medical	Surgery, life threatening emergencies.
Employment	Employer/employee disputes, performance evaluations.
Legal	Specialized, technical, legal disputes, pre-trial consultation, non-courtroom, non-magistrate.

LEVEL III - Advanced. Level III interpreters are recommended for the following situations:

Medical	Hospital situations, patient consultations, emergency room, medical history, labor and delivery.
Employment	Job interviews, on-the-job training, performance evaluations, staff meetings.
Legal	Routine, non-courtroom, non-magistrate.
Counseling	Family, group, 12 step programs.

LEVEL II - Intermediate. Level II interpreters are recommended for the following situations:

LEVEL I - Beginning. Level I interpreters are recommended for optimal placement in non-critical situations.

Note: It is assumed that interpreters at each level are also capable of providing services for the situations listed for the lower level qualifications pending the communication modality of the consumer and the interpreter's background experience.

HOW TO USE AN INTERPRETER

The following general guidelines may be helpful to you when working with a sign language interpreter:

1. Speak clearly in a normal tone and at a natural pace and do not exaggerate lip movements.

2. Speak directly to the person who is deaf or hard of hearing and avoid phrases like, "tell her" or "ask him."

3. Realize when the interpreter says, "I" or "me", that those are the direct words of the consumer who is deaf or hard of hearing, and not of the interpreter.

4. Do not speak privately to the working interpreter, as everything you say will be conveyed.

5. Because sign language is a visual language, eye contact will generally be with the interpreter, not you.

6. Situations involving interpreting for two or more hours may require more than one interpreter to reduce the possibility of errors made due to mental and physical fatigue as well as injury. Interpreting highly technical information or continuously for an hour or more may also require more than one interpreter. Interpreters should be relieved every twenty to thirty minutes in the manner least likely to disrupt the process.

7. Interpreting for a person who is deaf-blind requires essentially the same skills as those used by interpreters for those who are deaf or hard of hearing. However, the mode of communication may switch from a visual mode to a tactile mode. It is important that you are aware of the mode preferred by the consumer and that the request is made known to the interpreter.

Positioning Considerations:

1. The interpreter should be positioned in a well-lit area with clear visibility by consumers who are deaf or hard of hearing. The interpreter should never be requested to stand in front of a window or other lighting source which would cause distracting shadows and eye fatigue.

2. When using the services of an interpreter in a one-on-one situation such as a small meeting or private appointment, the interpreter should sit slightly behind and to the side of the speaker, allowing the consumers to see both the speaker and the interpreter.

3. For large group presentations, the interpreter should be positioned near the speaker. If it is a very large group, more than one interpreter may be needed to ensure visibility.

4. If the presenter is deaf or hard of hearing and speaking before a large group and requires an interpreter for voicing, the interpreter should be seated facing the speaker and provided with a microphone.

Please contact the Interpreter Services Coordinator at VDDHH for additional questions you may have regarding the effective use of an interpreter.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR INTERPRETERS

The Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf, Inc. has set forth the following principles of ethical behavior to protect and guide the interpreter, the consumers (hearing and deaf or hard of hearing) and the profession, as well as to insure for all, the right to communicate.

This code of ethics applies to all nationally certified and state qualified interpreters.

1. Interpreters/transliterators shall keep all assignment related information strictly confidential.

2. Interpreters/transliterators shall render the message faithfully, always conveying the content and spirit of the speaker using language most readily understood by the person(s) whom they serve.

3. Interpreters/transliterators shall not counsel, advise or interject personal opinions.

4. Interpreters/transliterators shall accept assignments using discretion with regard to skill, setting, and the consumer involved.

5. Interpreters/transliterators shall request compensation for services in a professional and judicious manner.

6. Interpreters/transliterators shall function in a manner appropriate to the situation.

7. Interpreters/transliterators shall strive to further knowledge and skills through participation in workshops, professional meetings, interaction with professional colleagues, and reading of current literature in the field.

8. Interpreters/transliterators, by virtue of membership in or certification by the R.I.D., Inc., shall strive to maintain high professional standards in compliance with the Code of Ethics.

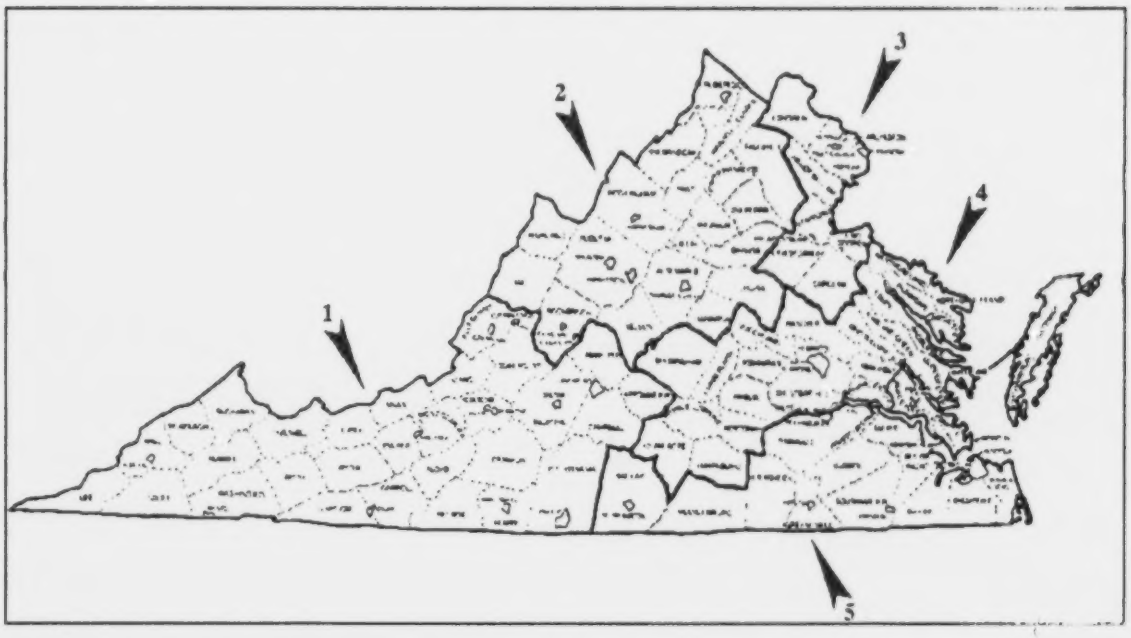
DIRECTORY LISTING OF QUALIFIED INTERPRETERS



The list of qualified interpreters is divided into two sections: 1) nationally certified; 2) state screened. To assist you in determining the most appropriate interpreter, the following information is provided:

- Interpreter Name, Address and Contact Phone Numbers
- Credentials Held (Refer to Page 6 for appropriateness of skill level needed)
- Availability (General times listed; "Varies" refers to frequent schedule changes)
- Regions Served (refer to Regional Map above)

We recommend allowing as much time as possible to fill an interpreting assignment as many interpreters work other jobs and their schedules fill quickly. Given short notice, late afternoon, evening and Weekend assignments are generally the best times to obtain the services of a qualified interpreter.

Please feel free to contact the Interpreter Services Coordinator at VDDHH for assistance as needed between 8:15 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday at 1-800-552-7917 or 804/225-2570.
